

Edward Nathan Page

Chief Financial and Operating Officer

Ed brings nearly 25 years of experience driving performance improvement for companies' operations, finances, strategy, implementation, and organizational development to Ascension. He leads the team's collaborative efforts, leads strategic planning and drives Ascension's industry leadership. Day to day, he oversees all finance and operations functions, information technology and human resources.

Prior to Ascension, Ed's roles have included Chief Financial/Advisor for several portfolio companies for Alpine Investors, Chief Financial and Operating Officer of EDC, the 2nd largest owner/operator of ATM's in the country, which was acquired by Cardtronics in 2011. Previously, he served as Chief Financial Officer for Clark Sustainable Resource Developments, an international underwater timber harvesting company backed by Barclays Capital and Goldman Sachs; Managing Director of The Piedmont Group, a strategy, finance and operations consulting firm; an Associate Partner of The Trium Group, a San Francisco-based boutique consulting firm; and a Senior Manager at Bain and Company, a global strategy consulting firm. Ed also served as the chief operating officer and co-founder of CareAssured, a healthcare technology company.

Ed has a Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering from M.I.T, a Master's degree in Electrical Engineering from UC Berkley, and a Master's degree in Business Administration from Stanford University.